What is going on in the project now?

- We have five different sub-projects that fall under FMF currently, these are:
 - The Working Group
 - The Masterplan
 - Buy to Let
 - Self-sufficiency and Community Resilience
 - Effects the SMP2 has had and will have on the community

What support have we received?

- A total of £89,885 from Gwynedd Council
- A total of £113,494 from Welsh Government to-date
- Welsh Government have procured a research organisation to work with us

- We are expecting c£100k further from Welsh Government
- Plus other bids we have submitted

- A strong commitment to the community, in difficult financial times

Successes...?

- A list of successes has been provided to you – please take the time to read through it.
- In order to secure continuing funding to support Fairbourne we need to continue to highlight the issues we are facing both with government and industry, but in a realistic and positive manner.
- The Fairbourne Annual Report is one such mechanism – do you want to be involved in the next edition?

- To Fairbourne Facing Change
- To you, the community
- To our stakeholders

The Fairbourne Masterplan

What is the Masterplan?

It is a researched, planned process to decommission the village, over a long period of time.

Why use the term 'decommissioning'?

Decommissioning is a general term for a formal process to remove something from an active status.

Why do we need to do this?

Irrespective of the Shoreline Management Plan (2), the effects of natural processes are happening in Fairbourne and due to its location, these effects are not easily managed.

Because we are now aware of these affects – we have to do something to support the future of the village. This is not a simple task and does not involve one single solution. We have, therefore, called it a Masterplan.

Why do we need to do this?

Our commitment to defend the village for 40 years from 2014 (dependant upon the evidence available at the time when the SMP2 was written) still stands. Nothing has changed. But we have to plan for what we know will happen.

This plan will be flexible enough to take account of – and respond to – changes in scientific information as it becomes available. This means certain aspects of the plan may not happen for some considerable time. However, if we continue to experience storms and weather such as those we've seen recently, we may need to bring certain aspects of that plan forward.

Leading the way....

There are no templates for such a Masterplan, no precedents set.

This means we'll be faced with huge challenges and problems.

We need to work with others to find the solutions.

A great deal of these challenges, we are not even aware of yet and this is why we need your help here today.
